The Passions and the Interests
Political Arguments for Capitalism before Its Triumph
Albert O. Hirschman
In his continuing search for a better understanding of the connections between economics and politics, Hirschman explores the 17th and 18th centuries and presents a novel interpretation of the rise of capitalism and its "spirit." Cloth, $10.00 • Paper, $2.95

John Stuart Mill and Representative Government
Dennis F. Thompson
Arguing that the critical neglect of Considerations on Representative Government has led to inadequate interpretations of Mill's thought on democracy, Thompson restores a balanced view by studying the structure of the theory expounded in this work. $13.50

The Existentialist Critique of Freud
The Crisis of Autonomy
Gerald N. Izenberg
Izenberg evaluates the critique of Freudian metapsychology in the work of existential philosophers and psychiatrists to interpret the relationship of psychoanalysis and existentialism, and thus traces the history of a crisis in the European rationalist tradition. $16.50
